“I always love to learn. I always look at everything. I am always looking at videos, or in the gym working on the things that I’ve seen. I started out doing some kickboxing and boxing, then a little Capoeira, Tae Kwon Do and Karate. The human body can move in many ways, and that's what I'm trying to do. I'm looking for my body to move in all ways, to attack and defend.” (martialarts.about.com)

It usually takes a fighter many years to reach the level of success Conor has reached in such a short time. He is famous all over the world now for his fast moves, his knockout record and his eccentric personality and self-belief. He never fails to entertain his fans.
